

MR. CAMERON, EXAM. BY MR. MERRICK

1 Q. Well, it strikes me, Mr. Cameron, that a threat is
2 being made -- you say a threat is being made one way.

3 A. Uh-huh.

4 Q. And a threat is made back. It just seems to me you
5 were both playing the same game.

6 A. Well, I suppose, when you get into tough
7 negotiations, you have to show some strength or you might
8 as well fold your books and go home.

9 Q. And again, to come back to the point of yesterday,
10 if you can give me any more elaboration, other than on
11 the interest point which was negotiated, can you show us
12 any other evidence of you taking such a tough stand with 13 Curragh?

14 A. Well, our officials dealt with Curragh on all the 15 issues.

16 Q. I know, and I have your evidence on that, but can 17 you think of any issue that you took a tough stand with 18 Curragh on other than the interest issue which you've 19 told us about?

20 A. There's many times they would complain about the 21 toughness of our officials, and I'd just send them back
22 and say, "No, you deal with them."

23 Q. I'm looking for an issue on which you would have
24 taken an equally tough stand with Curragh.

25 A. Mr. Merrick, you're just again trying to make
